BROADWAY

By Jack O'Brian

New York—Carl Brisson, the Danish singer who, despite being a grandfather, is one of the most popular café entertainers currently in the fashionable whirl, has returned to the plushy Versailles on the East Side . . . and on top of one of the finest and most successful comebacks of any such star in the last few years, has signed to have his life story filmed in the country where he was born. . . . That is an accomplishment which gives him a larger satisfaction than anything he might be able to dream up on this side, for there is nothing better for anyone's ego than being a big guy in the eyes of your hometowners.

And Carl is a credit to the Danish countrymen who point to him with such pride as typical of the successful contributions they have given to this country. . . . His story is a glamorous one without the easy and obvious golden touch of the screen, for he was a champion prizefighter, a European favorite roughly approximating the attractions of Clark Gable, Frank Sinatra and Van Johnson, before he came to this country . . . and he was a great favorite here, going into a brief eclipse only to hit the heights again when he was a grandpappy, and a rich, attractive, successful and highly entertaining one to boot. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Just about the season's hottest radio comic, Kenny Delmar, who plays "Senator Claghorn" on the Fred Allen program, has capitalized on his new-found fame and is cleaning up in every possible direction . . . His latest attainment is to sign at a handsome salary for a lead part in Orson Welles' and Cole Porter's new musical "Around the World." . . Kenny will play a Scotland Yard inspector whose duties will permit him to sputter in a manner not at all dissimilar to his antic radio style. . . . Also signed for the show in Marva Heady, "purty" wife of comic Peter Lind Hayes, son of the great vaudeville star, Grace Hayes.

Sonia Shaw, a red-headed dancer rehearsing in the new musical "Shootin' Star," is the wife of millionaire fabric designer Bill Katzell, who was co-producer earlier this season with Lee Sabinson of "Home of the Brave." . . . The latter show, incidentally, forced to close a few weeks ago because of a real estate tangle, probably will return to Broadway in a month or so when the theater shortage eases up a little. . . . The management says the Shuberts have promised them a house if one possibly can be shaken loose.

UNRRA Saved Lives Of 3,000,000 Greeks, Official Of That Country Reveals

Ambassador Pledges Support To UNO In Address Here

"As we were faithful members of the League of Nations, we will work for the success of the United Nations with the same faith and determination", Cimon Diamantopoulos, Greek Ambassador to the United States, stated during his visit here Monday in speaking in behalf of his overseas fellow countrymen while addressing the 250 persons attending the Greek Victory day observance, sponsored jointly by the Biddeford-Saco Rotary and Saco and Biddeford Kiwanis clubs at St. Joseph hall Monday evening.

Paying their personal tribute to the distinguished visiting ambassador while attending the affair were: Mayor Louis B. Lausier, Mayor Charles S. Anthony of Saco, Grammond O. Baptist, Three Rivers, P. Q., governor of the 193rd district, Rotary International; James V. Neithercut, Saco, governor of New England Kiwanis clubs; Lieutenant Governor Dr. James Bouffard, Gorham of District No. 8; Major John Taylor, liaison officer, U. S. Army Air Forces, New England area, assigned to active duty with region one, Boys Scouts of America, and Governor Horace Hildreth, Augusta, arriving late in the program following a speaking engagement in Portland.

Others seated at the head table were Miss Clara Margone, S-1-C, WAVES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Margone, Old Orchard Beach, the only young lady of Greek parentage in this vicinity to serve in the World War Two armed forces; Selectman Arthur T. Dickson of Old Orchard Beach, secretary to Kiwanis governor James V. Neithercut; Rev. Demeerios Michaelides, pastor of St. James Greek Orthodox church of this city; Arthur J. Pariseau, president of the Biddeford-Saco Rotary club; Dr. Leo P. Taillon, president of the Saco and Biddeford Kiwanis club; H. Dayton Benway, a member of the Kiwanis club reception committee, who introduced Governor Hildreth and Nicholas Scontras, secretary of the local Kiwanis club, who acted as toastmaster for the evening.

Included in the two hundred and fifty persons attending the affair were approximately 100 local World War veterans of Greek parentage, many of the prominent Hellenic residents of the two cities, visiting Kiwanis and Rotary club officers and members, representatives of the Protestant and Roman Catholic church clergy of the two cities, and city and county officials.

Music for the occasion was provided by the Philharmonic orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Martin. Miss Rita Morin rendered two vocal selections, "Indian Love Call" and "I'm Forever Chasing Rainbows."

During the group singing periods, Chester Zucker, Field Scout executive, and M. Harry Whelan, of the Kiwanis club, each alternated in serving as leaders of the popular selections sung. Professor Rufus Perkins of Old Orchard Beach was at the piano during the singing program.

Ambassador Diamantopoulos expressed his gratitude and also in behalf of the residents and officials of Greece for the kind financial aid and food contributions during the war period. Due to the UNRRA, the lives of over 3,000,000 men, women and children of Greece were saved by food and medical supplies given by the residents of this country, the speaker stated.

The visiting ambassador told of existing conditions in Greece due to the ravages of war after about one-tenth of the population had died from starvation while engaged in battling the Axis powers and underground operations.

"There is still a huge scarcity of food through the country and shortage of wheat and other agricultural products will be greatly felt during the next three months before new crops can be harvested, and there is still little shipping due to many of our ships being lost during the war and usual communication conditions are still lacking in many sections of the country and will not be in proper working operation for some time yet to come.

"We were looted by the Germans and other invading powers. Livestock they could not take with them was slaughtered. Our few resources and narrow margin of wealth were insufficient to support the ravages of occupation.

"You American-Greek boys have every right to be proud of both your present home country and the nation your ancestors battled for in defending their principles of freedom, many of which have been inherited in establishing the liberty loving rights which Americans enjoy. What you Americans did in shedding blood for the United States was a duplication of what your compatriots did in 1940 in the defense of Greece from the mountain sides.

"We have fought with the United States and Great Britain in two world wars because by culture and education we really belong to the western hemisphere countries, although it is our earnest desire to live in peace with all countries of the world.'

"Since the rebirth of Greece as a free country we have been exceptionally good friends with the United States and there cannot be any possible misconceptions to mar our present friendship.

"I understand that the recent elections in Greece were conducted in a most orderly manner, there were no unusual disturbances as far as can be officially learned and we here and abroad are awaiting what is expected to be a favorable report from the American, British and French observers which is expected to be released Wednesday of this week," the ambassador concluded.

Later in the evening, in behalf of the members sponsoring the event, the ambassador was presented with a pair of Pepperell blankets and also a rawhide gavel, the gift of the Garland Munufacturing company, Saco.

Governor Hildreth extended his greetings in behalf of the residents of Maine to Ambassador Diamantopoulos for his honoring the Pine Tree service clubs and World War II veterans who were guests for the occasion by coming to this state to address them. He expressed his gratitude to the Greek-American War Veterans for their many sacrifices made and for their brilliant achievements contributed for the future preservance of these liberty-loving principles.

"If you will seek the pursuit of happiness and peace in the future with the same determination you displayed on the battlefields overseas in seeking that victory and peace you desired, we will all be still more proud of you then we are for your success and achievements in aiding to win the war," he declared.

Mayor Louis B. Lausier, in extending his greetings to the distinguished visitor and honored guests, in behalf of Biddeford citizenry, paid special tribute to the Greek residents of the community as of the finest types of American citizens interested in the future welfare of their home community and the future prosperity and success of their home city, state and country and hoped each one of those of Greek parentage would continue to make their home here.

Mayor Charles S. Anthony of Saco extended greetings in behalf of Saco residents to the visiting ambassador and others in attendance and expressed appreciation for being invited to attend the affair.

Governor Neithercut of the New England Kiwanis club district complimented the members of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs for sponsoring such a fine affair, a splendid contribution to the "Brotherhood of Man" program which Kiwanis club officials are especially stressing this year. He also extended his greetings to the distinguished visitors in behalf of the organization of which he is executive head.

Louis Mourmouras, Saco, who served in the recent World War with the rank of captain, said in behalf of the veterans of Greek extraction of Biddeford and Saco, "I want to experss our deepest gratitude for the greatest honor you have bestowed upon us this evening. Also for affording us the privilege of meeting the representative of a small but glorious nation that has won the admiration of the world."

Grammond O. Baptist, governor of district 193, Rotary International, who journeyed 360 miles to participate in paying his personal respects to the visiting ambassador and Greek World War veterans, brought greetings from the membership of the clubs over which he is governor. He paid tribute to the Rotarians and Kiwanians for holding such gatherings.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. Michaelides. Toastmaster Scontras presided, introducing the speakers and guests.
